FLOOD RELIEF WELL IN HAND, SAYS HOOVER

Millions of Dollars Still Needed
To Rehabilitate Thousands
Who Have Been Ruined

NO DANGER OF PLAGUE

Secretary of Commerce Spends Hour with President Calvin Coolidge

Washington, May 2.—The flood relief situation is fairly well in hand, but millions of dollars still are needed to rehabilitate the thousands of persons who have been ruined by the disaster,
Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover said today.

There is no danger of a plague of any kind, he said.

Hoover was with the president for an hour.

The relief organization is working effectively and Hoover said he did not believe there was danger of any more loss of life in the flooded regions.

Living in the extreme south, Hoover declared that prompt rehabilitation work would enable farmers to plant crops this year after the flood has passed.

There is not now any danger of plague of a general epidemic, he declared.

$1,859.72 IS SUBSCRIBED TO RELIEF QUOTA

No Reports Received from County Churches Where Collections Were Taken

RESPONSE IS LIBERAL

Continuation of Red Cross Work Here Practically Assured by Results

The goal was in sight today in Marion County's campaign to raise its quota of the Mississippi relief fund as the result of a plan made Saturday in half of the Red Cross by the Marion Chapter of Commerce.

The county's quota as fixed by the national relief committee of the American Red Cross is $2,000 and at noon today the local Red Cross Chapter had reports showing that a total of $1, 859.72 had been subscribed.

No reports have been received from churches in the county outside the city of Marion where collections were to be taken yesterday, and it is thought that when these reports are heard from the quota will be reached.

Church people of the city responded liberally to the plan made in behalf of the flood sufferers at service yesterday.
Collections from various congregations amounting to $800.72. It was stated today that contributions are still coming in from members of a number of the churches, assuring a substantial increase in the grand total by 5 o'clock
Tuesday afternoon, the time set for obtaining the county's quota.

The Sunday school of Epworth M.
E. Church, which has been working for a total donation of $125.55. Other collections were as follows:

First Presbyterian Church, $200; Emmanuel
Lutheran, $100.50; First Reformed
Church, $100.50; Trinity Baptist, $100.
Street M. E. Church, Central Christian
Church, $25.55; United Brethren, $25.55;
Evangelical, $10.32; The Memorial Church, $10.32; Oakland Evangelical, $11.

The First Church of Christ Scientist reports that a collection is now under way among its members and that a report will be made late today or early Tuesday morning. No collection was taken yesterday at Calvary Evangelical.

Shortage of Funds in Ohio Treasury Will Not Affect Marion County Roadwork

Grover C. Snyder, Division Engineer of State Highway Department, Says Local Situation One of Best in Ohio; Completion of Highways Assured

Shortage of funds in the state treasury, which will prevent awarding of contracts for any additional road building in Ohio this year, will not interfere with completion of projects now under way in Marion County, Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the state highway department, said at his office here today.

Neither will the fact that there is no money available for new construction work anywhere in Ohio seriously affect Marion County, according to information obtained from Snyder. The county, the division engineer says, is especially well provided with good roads at this time so that there is no urgent need for immediate expenditures by the state highway department.

Marion County, record of the highway department shows, has shared generally in the distribution of state funds used for road improvement work during the last few years with the result that practically all of the main thoroughfares are in first class condition.

Three Underway

Three road building jobs are now being constructed in the county by the state department. They are the Marion Delaware rd., which was recently closed for construction between Marion and Wadley, the Marion Mt. Gilead rd. now being improved between Marion and Lebanon and a section of the Marion Marysville rd.

Practically all of the other projects in Marion County are being completed. The Marion Mt. Gilead rd. is almost completed, and all of the remaining work here, the engineer said, will be completed by the end of the year.

Funds for completion of the improvement work will be available in the fall when the state highway department will be ready to award contracts for the completion of the work.

Completion Assured

Completion of the projects in Marion County, Snyder said, is assured, and the late money has not affected the work in the county. Snyder said that the state highway department will be ready to award contracts for the completion of the work in the fall when the state highway department will be ready to award contracts for the completion of the work.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Marion, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the cause of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never grips, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin", Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE, and just see for yourself.

In the shadow of the "cheap" house paint can

Don't let the low price on "cheap" paint fool you. Once you get in the shadow of the "cheap" paint can you will have a gloomy outlook. You may think the low price is saving you money. But your reward will be a bigger paint bill—an inferior job—a short-life job—and big repainting bills.

There is only one way to real economy in house paint. Use the best paint money can buy—SWP. It costs more per gallon—but much less per job and per year. Ask us to prove it.

GUARANTEED!

SWP is guaranteed to look better, last longer, cost less per job and less per year than any paint on the market.

FIRST VIEW OF LEVEE CUT TO SAVE NEW ORLEANS

First view, rushed by airplane and telephoto, of levee near Poydras, Louisiana, 14 miles south of New Orleans, pierced by dynamite blasts to relieve pressure of the Mississippi's flood on New Orleans' dikes. Upper picture shows the site as seen from the river prior to the blasting. Lower photo is a landslide view showing the three breaks caused by engineers' dynamite charges. This picture was taken immediately following the explosions, with water already pouring in around the buildings of St. Bernard parish. Within a few hours this fruitful farming region was covered to a depth of eight feet and the water continued to roar through the openings. Arrows point to breaks.

MORE WEDDING LICENSES THAN DIVORCES GRANTED

35 Marriage Grants Issued During April; 13 File Separation Suits

Marion County's divorce mill fell behind the county's marriage license bureau in competition during April, records at the courthouse showed today. The Probate Court issued 35 marriage licenses and 13 divorce suits were filed in the Common Pleas Court. LAD ENDS LIFE

Columbus Boy Succeeds After Accidentally Shooting His Chum

Columbus, May 2.—Funeral services were being arranged here today for Gerald George, 11, as an aftermath of a strange juvenile tragedy which occurred Sunday.

Crazed with fear and remorse, the child committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with his father's revolver after he had accidentally wounded Robert Summers, 14, a playmate. While the two were playing together in George's home, the boy pointed an old muzzle-loading rifle at his chum, and pulled the trigger playfully. The gun which he believed unloaded, discharged, sending a bullet through the latter boy's arm and inflicting a slight flesh wound. Robert ran to his own home across the street. Gerald, dressing himself in his new suit, took the revolver and shot himself, dying instantly. His body was found by his parents, who returned home soon afterwards.

JUNE 7 DATE FOR SALE OF STEEL PLANTS

Hadfield-Penfield Properties To Be Sold from Court-house Steps

Columbus, May 2.—Announcement from Cleveland late Saturday named June 7 as the probable date of the sale of the plant of the Hadfield-Penfield Co. in Bucyrus as well as the company's plants at Willoughby, Mansfield, and Kensington, near Chicago.

The order authorizing sale from the steps of the Bucyrus Court House, on or about June 7 was issued by Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver and is the result of a suit brought by the federal government to take a view of potentially realizing war claims of over $150,000.

The suit forced the company into a receivership and W. A. Riddell was appointed receiver.

The city of Bucyrus was allowed $100,000 on its claim for $100,000 it was announced. The judge held that part of the notes held by the city were out of order because of their age.

Considered with the announcement of the order setting the date of sale an announcement made by local officials that the company indicates that the local agents are working hard to their former position as a night force of 150 men are put to work to fill the large number of orders for road machinery coming into the company. The day work force of 200 men at the South shop was only recently increased from 125 men to 200 and it is expected that more will be added.

Judge Westenhaver announced that during the month of April that the Bucyrus plant has had a better business than at any other time during its history.

The sale of the Hadfield-Penfield plants from the steps of the court house will be the second largest sale ever made by Bucyrus. The largest sale ever made was that of the Columbus, Shawnee and Jackson road building plant, known as the Bucyrus plant, sold to the Army of the United States in 1935.

M'MURRAY AND KELLOGG AT ODDS OVER CHINA

State Department Has No Idea of Recalling Peking Minister. It Is Said

Washington, May 2.—Strong differences of opinion have developed between Minister MacMurray at Peking and Secretary of State Kellogg over the policy to be adopted by the United States in dealing with the Chinese situation.

There has not been, nor is there now, however, any consideration being given to the recall of MacMurray from his post, it was stated semi-officially at the state department today. The administration has no intention of recalling MacMurray, and so far as Washington is aware, MacMurray has no intention of resigning.

MacMurray favors the United States joining with the other powers in a strong punitive policy, while Kellogg is inclined to an independent and more conciliatory course.

CHIANG FORCED TO DISARM HIS MEN

London, May 2.—Gen. Chiang Kai Shek has been forced to deal with disaffection in his armies, according to dispatches received by the British government today. These dispatches state that Chiang Kai Shek has ordered 5,000 men in his sixth army last Friday and is now moving 20,000 men of his loyal third army into Nanjing.

The dead children are Eleanor, 7; Harold, 5; and Bernice, 3.

A note in Hackman's coat, found on the bank, explained the tragedy. It revealed that Hackman had a moral fear his children were susceptible to the same "dreadful, lingering disease" that caused the death of Alma.

Hackman told the boys around each little form and then attached the end around his own waist. He waded into the creek, bowed down the children on the bend of the stream and then laid across them.

Mrs. Mackman collapsed when told of the tragedy.

Galton, May 2.—An event of yesterday was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Quay who entertained friends and relatives at their home, 216 N. Union St. At noon an elaborate dinner was served with covers placed for 22. Guests at this event included Mr. and Mrs. Quay and daughter, Mrs. M. E. Egan, Galton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McFarland and daughter, Genevieve, Elwood City, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Quay, Tiffin, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Quay and Mr. and Mrs. H. Dehn, Lyons, Ohio; Mrs. Hattie Lyons Dayton; Miss Lona Farig, Galton, and Miss Viola Cox, Dayton, Pa.

During the afternoon hours Mr. and Mrs. Quay received informally when a host of friends called to pay their respects.

It was on May 1, 1877 in a small church near West Point, that the wedding ceremony took place. The service was held in the Presbyterian church here, last April 12. Dixon's father is junior at the church.

A mob search for the girl, who was seized the night before and remained throughout the night.

Another mob went to the postoffice walls and demanded permission to search for Dixon. The search was permitted and the mob then left for Benton, 25 miles away, county seat of Saline County and searched the jail there.

Sum after the young negro confessed the crime, officials spirited away for safe keeping.

The girl's body was found in the bell tower Saturday afternoon. Dixon said the girl had stopped in the vestibule of the church to escape a heavy rainstorm and he forced her to climb a ladder into the belfry.

After he had attacked her, he said, she threatened to tell her father. He then strangled her on the head with a brick, he said.

FIVE IN ONE FAMILY TO BE BURIED TOGETHER

Father Kills Three Children and Takes Own Life After Daughter Dies

Ratesville, Ind., May 2.—Five members of the Fred Hackman family, three of whom were murdered, one a suicide and the fifth a victim of the white plague, will be buried at a single funeral service here tomorrow.

Another death in the family may occur today, physicians attending Mrs. Hackman, the sole surviving member of the family, declared. She is prostrate over the death of her husband and four children.

The tragedy had its beginning last Saturday when Alma Hackman, 20, succumbed after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. Last night the bodies of Fred Hackman, the father, and three of his younger children all died around the same time.

The dead children are Eleanor, 7; Harold, 5; and Bernice, 3.

A note in Hackman's coat, found on the bank, explained the tragedy. It revealed that Hackman had a moral fear his children were susceptible to the same "dreadful, lingering disease" that caused the death of Alma.

Hackman told the boys around each little form and then attached the end around his own waist. He waded into the creek, bowed down the children on the bend of the stream and then laid across them.

Mrs. Mackman collapsed when told of the tragedy.

REV. ADRIANCE DELIVERS FAREWELL SERMON HERE

Auditorium of Fite Memorial Baptist Church Filled to Capacity

Rev. A. G. Adriance, brought to a close his term as pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist Church last night at the church with his sermon on the subject, "The Future in the Light of Remembrance." The auditorium was filled to capacity with many guests, representatives of other churches in attendance.

Rev. E. C. Dufford, pastor of the Springfield Baptist Church, and a guest at the service, conducted devotions.

"Tonight marks the close of a most remarkable, happy and fruitful ministry," Reverend Adriance said in part, "evidence of that being held as well as even in your hearts and mine. We have had a happy time together and for this we are supremely thankful. Naturally the close of such a relationship has its sadness, but that will soon be forgotten and only the memory of our happy relationship and ministry shall endure."

"Prophetically here is the most outstanding characteristic of that relationship," Reverend Adriance continued, "We can go without great sermons or a beautiful new church edifice but without brotherly love no church can endure. That spirit must live."

Mrs. Lawrence Hatcher sang a beautiful solo, Miss Lillian Hatcher accompanied her at the piano.

What Has Gone Before
To the home of PROF. and MOLLIE ELWELL, in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1926, is brought a woman who has fainted on a passing train. That night two girls are born to her and she dies without revealing her name.

Inconvenience? Yes; But Never Pain.

Menstruation is Nature — but menstrual pain is NOT natural, and not necessary. Science has conquered the 24th part. In a harmless — yes, trifling — little tablet called Midol. Midol is a more remarkable means of relieving such pain than even a habit-forming drug. It acts directly on the cause of menstruation, and comes in five to seven minutes.

reported dead. Later he is identified in a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him to find his memory and speech gone. He is like a living dead man.

The day before his parents are to take him home Jim wanders away from his nurse, NELLIE DOWNING.

A frantic search is begun. Late that night he is found in Bellevue hospital, unconscious, his skull fractured, expected to die. He had been hit by a truck.

The twins are in Indianapolis at the home of their uncle, JOHN CLAYTON, the mystery of their identity having been cleared up while Jim was in France. John Clayton is notified that Jim, whose life had been despaired of, now has a chance to live, and he speaks of his joy to MARTHA DALTON, an old friend of the Elwells, and they discuss the possibility of Jim's being cured and marrying Nellie Downing.

Now Begin the Story

CHAPTER XXXIX
"WOULDN'T Jim, with his mind back?" Betty continued. "The same old Jim he always was, a perfect darling, but old Jim just the same — a big boy of an artist whose only knowledge of girls is what he learned from the girl he knew from the night they were born?"

"Do you suppose that Jim, accustomed all his life to these two tomboys — girls as full of fun as a chestnut burr — full of stink-bombs — just the same because he trained them himself, and knowing they loved him, that dear old Jim is going to forget all about his pals and fall in love with the Faithless Lady just because she nursed him in France and happened to be on hand when his memory came back?"

"I tell you, Dally," she finished, speaking severely to their old friend, "your romance is too romantic and anyhow I'm not going to have Jim falling for any nurse!"

"Nurses are not so bad," remarked John Clayton, and looked significantly at Martha Dalton. She bowed slightly and smiled at him.

"You said it, sister," Betty was exclaiming. "We won't have our Jim tying up with any profession but the stage and he can even aspire to a grand opera star there, if he wants to, can't he?"

"Oh a new and famous danseuse in Russian costume, perhaps," supplemented their Uncle John. "I reiterate, however, that nurses are not so bad. I tried to get it across a month ago and you never even paid Martha Dalton the compliment of acknowledging it."

"No Comparison"

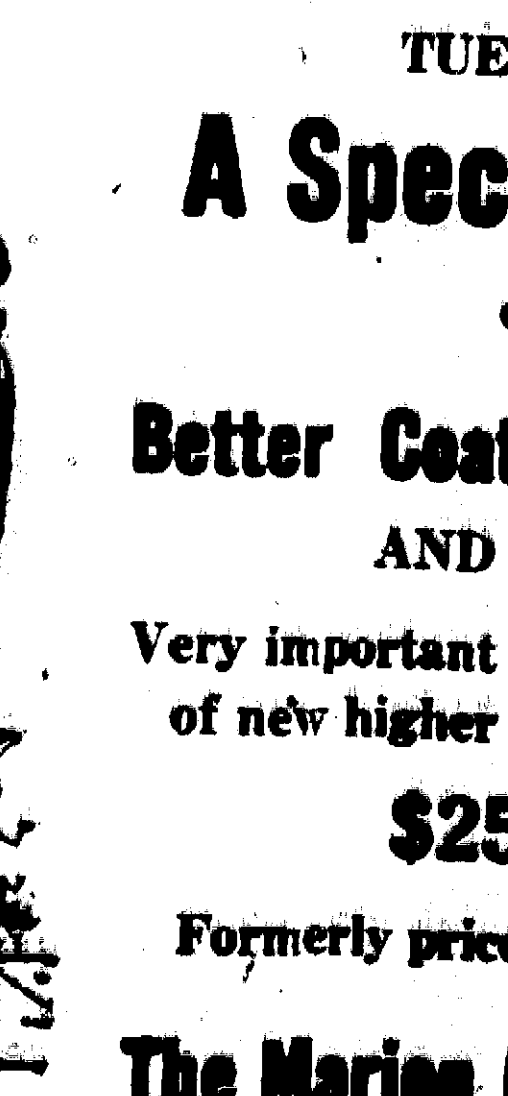

"There's no comparison," says ex-quisite Miss Juanita Thompson, Kentucky, W. Virginia, "in the way my complexion looks and feels now I'm using Black and White Skin Soap and the way it was when I depended on just any soap I happened to find in the bath room! This delicately fragrant soap, lathering so quickly and plentifully never dries or irritates my skin, but cleanses it into immaculate freshness, and keeps it always smooth, clear and dainty."

Aged and milled thoroughly, so it lasts twice as long as ordinary soaps, the 25¢ cake of Black and White Skin Soap is the choice of discriminating women everywhere as an economical bath, shampoo and facial soap of highest quality and excellence. $8,000 dealers recommended and sell it.

He shook his head. "I'm afraid your training has suffered since Jim's been away."

Elizabeth Marvin snuggled her copper head against the white-gray of his own.

"Well, I only hope," she said softly, "that his nurse can help him to get back his memory and that Mollie and Prof. bring him home pretty soon."

"She said off her chair and stood up. 'I must go and write a letter,' she announced. 'I've about a million things to tell Mollie and quite a few things I want to say to Nellie Downing.'"

She paused. "Yes, Uncle John, our training probably has been neglected a little since Jim left. But — rather mysteriously — we've also grown up a bit in that time."

John Clayton chuckled and bestowed a knowing look on Martha Dalton. "Be very careful, dear," he said, turning back to his niece. "Mind your p's and q's and don't let your pen slip."

Rusty followed her sister upstairs and presently Martha Dalton rose with the remark that she thought she would "catch a little nap."

John Clayton touched his finger to the ceiling and gazed for a long time at the ceiling. "Still water," he mused, "runs deep. I don't know how to express it any better than that. Unless I'm greatly mistaken, those two young ladies could tell us all something that would surprise us considerably. Considerably," he repeated, and reached for a cigar.

During the first two weeks of Nurse Dalton's visit at the Clayton home she made three ineffectual attempts to impart to her host the information that she must return to Camdenville. On the third attempt he stopped her at the beginning.

"Now, listen very carefully to me, Martha Dalton," he said, his lips smiling but an undertone of real seriousness shading his voice, "and forget about this going back to the old nursing job and living alone again."

He hadn't forgotten, he said, and never should, what he owed her. "My sister Edna was very dear to me, even if she did marry against my judgment, and what you did for her made me your debtor for all time. That debt is in the class with the debt I owe Prof. and Mollie. Nothing that I can ever do over will balance the accounts. But I have the right to expect and insist upon being allowed to pay a little interest on my debts."

"You are very fond of the girls," he continued earnestly. "That I know. And both of them think the world of you. Now, I've been considering this matter for a long time — ever since Mollie Elwell during her visit here drew for me a night picture of you as you looked that night twenty years ago when you brought Edna to Prof. and her."

He wanted her, he said, to make her home there, as companion and a kind of chaperon for the girls.

"This," he explained, "will be an honorary position — not that of an

Sheer Frocks and Women's Hygiene
New way safer — Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BRICKLAND

THAT filmy gowns and women's oldest hygienic problem now go safely together is a fact millions of women are learning.

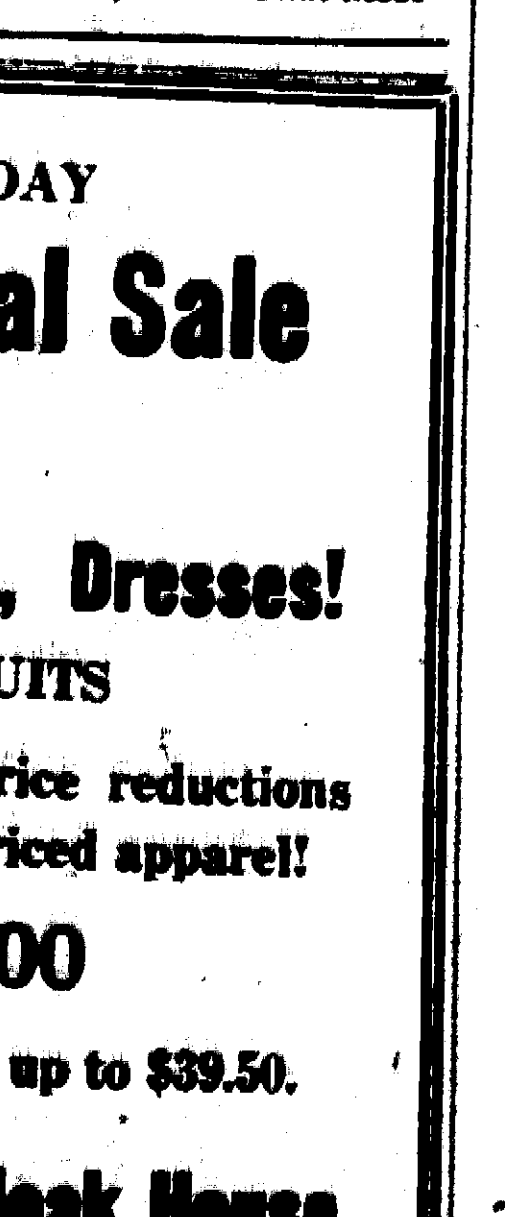

Old-time sanitary "pads" with their worries and dangers are giving way to the utter protection of a new way called Kotex.

Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

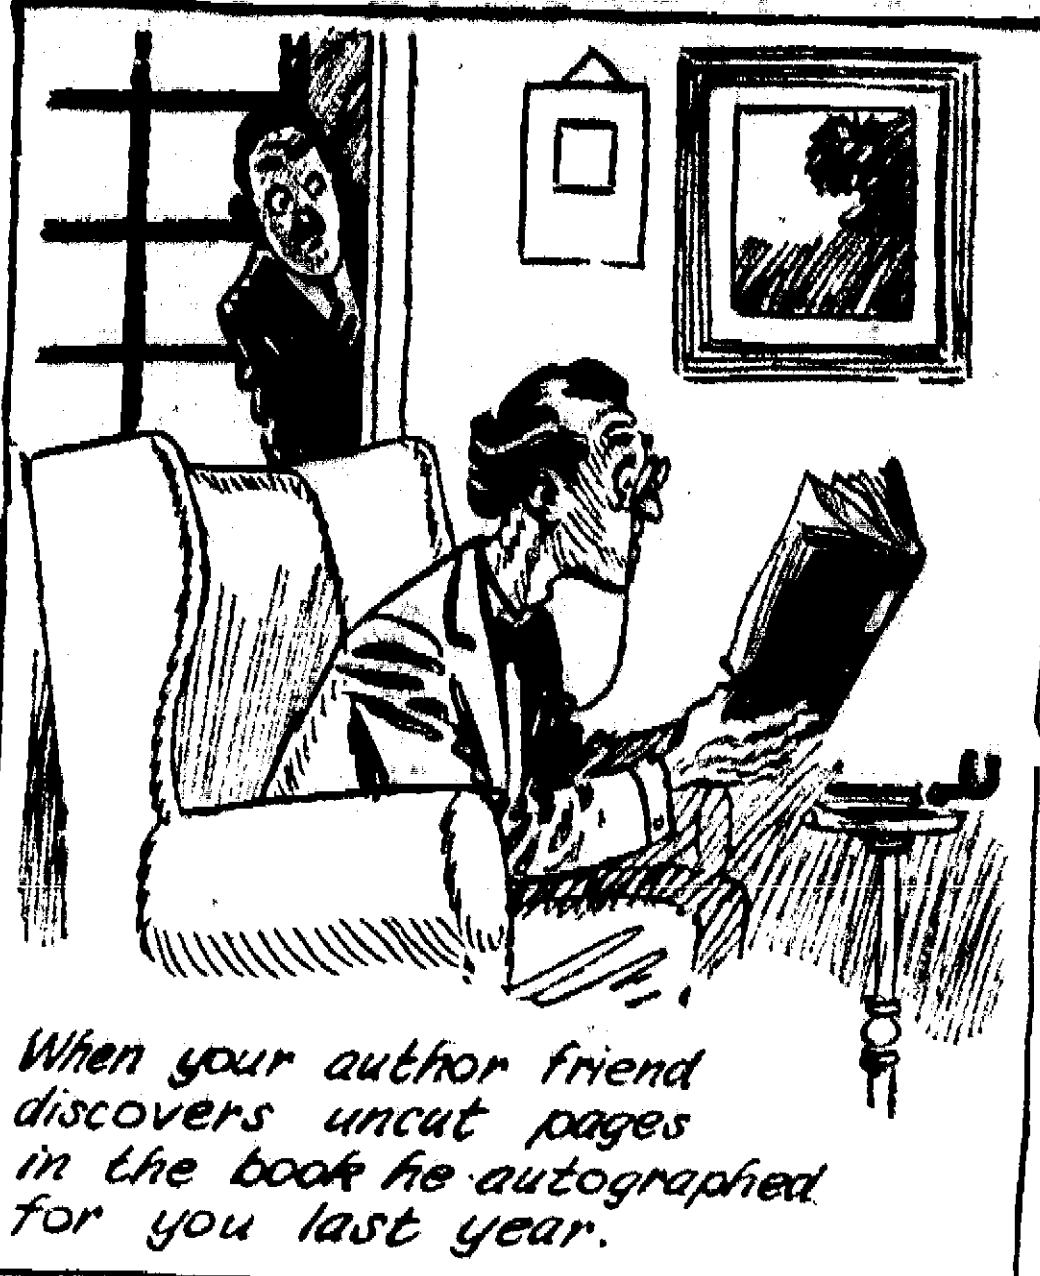

5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits one to dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt. Also deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

employee, of course — and I want to put sufficient funds aside in the shape of an endowment so that you never will be embarrassed for want of money."

"I've spoken to the girls about this and it pleases them immensely. So now you see how utterly useless it is for you to be talking about going back to Camdenville and to work again. This thing they call work and you, Martha Dalton, have reversed position. Hereafter instead of work telling you what time to get up in the morning you can now tell work to go plunk to hell and ring for your breakfast to be served in bed for you."

That, it seemed, was that. John Clayton had spoken. Martha Dalton was thinking that, after all, there was something in the story about casting a load of bread on the waters. It had taken twenty years for Martha Dalton to get her back. But she got hers, all right — served in bed, in case she liked it that way.

Margaret and Betty Marvin made of Nurse Dalton a repository for all their little feminine confidences, the kind they wouldn't tell their uncle, he being a mere man. There was one little confidence, however, that her most durable cork screw failed to extract. Still, that didn't matter, she conspired herself. It was all in the family, anyhow.

Letters from Mollie Elwell were not as frequent as they had been previous to Jim's accident. Prof. did most of the writing these days.

Most of their own letters were addressed to her, though, and they looked forward to the day when they should see her familiar handwriting on an envelope. It would mean that Mollie Elwell was well again.

When such a letter did make its appearance one day it was fallen upon eagerly and unshared individually and collectively by all of the house of Clayton.

The letter bore good news — of the Elwells' homecoming, but to John Clayton it also brought disappointment. He had expected that Jim might —

"My dear ones: 'All things we are told, come to him who waits. Perhaps they come to her, too, if she has learned to be a good waiter. Prof. says that is one of the best things we have been doing since coming east — learning to wait. 'As you were told by Nellie Downing, Jim's escape from death was by a very narrow margin. The fracture, however, was not as dangerous as at first supposed, although he was unconscious from it for five days."

"Five days! Think of it!" breathed Rusty.

"Spine hope," the letter continued, "was held out to us at first that if he regained consciousness his brain might clear up again. This hope was shattered the moment he opened his eyes. So far as I could see, there was not the slightest change either way."

"He is far from strong yet, but the doctor says he will be in shape to be taken home in another week. But I must tell you now, my dears, what the specialists say, that there isn't a chance in a thousand that Jim will ever be any better mentally than he is now. His physical health probably will return — that is, he will take on weight and get strong. But his mind — oh, well, it is God's will and as Prof. says, we have much to be thankful for at that. Had Jim died I don't think I could have lived. In fact, I know I shouldn't."

"And now, dear girls, I must tell you something else. You have mentioned frequently in your letters Mr. Clayton's and your wishes that we — Prof. Jim and I — accompany you to Europe."

"I am afraid that it will not be possible," Jim must have said and quiet — particularly quiet — and kept free of the things that might excite him, for, as you have been told, he is very susceptible to emotion. And it is that I would caution you against."

"Both of you, of course, want to see Jim and I want that you should. But in view of certain things that I need to go into I think it would be best if you just met him and then left at once. For, oh my girls, I just can't bear a great deal more and the thought of what might have been is terrible. You must go on with your plans just as though Jim had died. We cannot go with you. I shall, of course, be expecting to find you, with Dalton, awaiting us at the old home. Please don't meet us at the train. Let the meeting take place at the old house."

"Ever your affectionate Mollie."

There was a postscript to the effect that she would write to give the time of her arrival.

John Clayton put the letter down and looked around him. And he saw a very strange thing. One of the girls — Betty — had been listening with down-cast expression. Now she burst into tears, and began to run her hands through her hair.

"There," she cried, incoherently, "there, Martha Dalton, is your romance for you. And well never get well — I'll never get well! Oh, my God! And we had hoped and prayed. Do you think I'll go to Europe without him? Do you think Mollie has a right to keep him all to herself? Go on with your plans as if Jim had died!" Oh!

Great men seldom know they are great until they are told so.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

MADGE MAKES PLANS

JIM'S translation of the words uttered by the two uncut foreigners with the savage dog almost upset my gravity. "Stay down all Summer for their health and the fishing." I repeated to myself, adding that two more perfect specimens of physical prowess I never had seen, despite the repellence which their long uncut hair, bushy beards and unkempt appearance had aroused in me.

Whatever their purpose in coming to the East end of Long Island, fishing was not one of their reasons. Fishing was more plausible, for there is excellent piscatorial sport to be found in the bays and coves at the East end of the island. But there came a sudden possible little conviction into my mind that neither of the reasons they had given explained the real purpose of their residence so near us.

As I furtively scrutinized their powerfully built frames and unassuming faces, I anatomized, and not for the first time, the short-sighted penuriosity of "old man Gimsey," as Jim disapprovingly called him, whose land adjoined ours at the rear and who each Summer rented a shack upon it to anyone who would pay for it. He would not repair it, and it was in such tumble-down condition that no self-respecting persons would occupy it. Each season we had been annoyed more or less by his nondescript tenants, but this was the first time that I had felt real uneasiness at the proximity of any of them.

My experience in aiding Lillian in her secret service work, during the World War and afterward, had taught me that people who try to disguise their knowledge, and to appear other than what they really are, will bear watching. I hastily marshaled in my mind the trifles I had against these men.

Both pretended to know only a few words of English yet one of them — I guessed the taller man — had shouted to Jerry in perfect unaccented English.

The taller man had seen that I had instructed Katie to come into the yard, and had deduced that she could understand Transylvanian, as that I brought her there to listen to them.

This was a far-fetched assumption, I knew, yet I could not forget the quick look he had flung me when Katie came running out nor had it escaped my observation that upon his low-toned warning — I could call it nothing else — the two men had changed their conversation into the French tongue.

But I knew this I must give them no more reason for thinking I doubted the sincerity of their excuse, so with a smile I bowed to them, and instructing Jim to mention them about muzzling the dog, I led the men to Katie. They took to the house, bidding Katie follow me when she had finished picking tows.

My worthy neighbor was still angry, voicing threats of what she would have "Sam" her husband, do to the strangers if they ever let the dog run loose again. I had hard work to restrain my ribbles as she talked, for I knew "Sam" possessed much less courage than either his wife or his son, and I hastened to change the trend of her thoughts as soon as I could. I was anxious to have her get away, for I was tremendously eager to question Katie concerning her impressions of the uncut strangers.

"You were speaking about getting young Mr. Verizian's lunch," I said, "when we were interrupted by that dog jumping at Jerry. Now, that will be very easily adjusted. Of course, I'm preposterous for him to go up to the Lincoln house even if Miss Lincoln is unconventional enough to plan it, for he never even has seen them. But he is an old friend of ours, especially of Mr. Graham's, and I know we can persuade him to come here. I will talk to him about it this afternoon."

Mrs. Tier laughed amusedly. "I'd like you to be around to see Miss Lincoln's face when I tell her," she said. "She's used to her own way, that girl!"

Marion Athletics Trim Springfield In Opening Game

Large Crowd Sees Local Crew Turn in First Win of Year at Lincoln Park

Final Score is 5 to 1; Rizer Knocks Out Home Run in Fourth Frame; Rowan Has Big Day and Steals Home for First Counter of Season; Fans Pleased

BY EDDIE SCHLESLED

Sports Editor, The Star

PERFORMING before a crowd of at least 1,000 persons, the Marion Athletics yesterday afternoon had little trouble in routing over Millard Clothers of Springfield, in the first baseball game of the season at Lincoln Park.

Ideal weather favored the two teams in the lid lifted for the 1927. Grant E. Meuser, former city solicitor of Marion, gave the opening address, concluding his brief talk with a wish of "all the success in the world" to Manager Francis Bacon and his teammates.

Jimmy Russo, one of the most ardent baseball fans in Marion, pitched the first ball. Bill Harp, Marion's new catcher, was behind the plate.

The Athletics took the lead in the first frame when Rowan stole home for the first run of the year. The second counter came in the third inning, and in the fourth, one in the fifth, and the final tally was recorded in the sixth. Springfield considered itself lucky to get a lone marker in the fifth frame.

Rowan Steals Home

Towson, lead-off man for the locals, started feebly by socking out a two-bagger in the first inning. Buckland was retired when the visiting second baseman made a neat pick up and went to second while Rowan landed on third in a double steal. Rowan crossed the plate a minute later when he beat the ball from the pitcher's hand on the trip home. Price and Conroy struck out after Bacon had stolen third base.

With one down in the third stanza, Buckland dropped a clean hit into right field, went to second on a sacrifice by Bacon, and completed the circuit for the second run as Kinler, Springfield center fielder, grounder around for Kinler's long fly, then rounded second as Kinler missed the ball. Conroy struck out, retiring the side.

With two down in the fourth frame, Rizer, Marion's ambitious shortstop, just couldn't see the boys go without a score in that inning and smacked the pill over the left field fence for a home run. He pulled the Babe Ruth stunt on the first pitched ball. It was the first home run at Lincoln Park this season and only one made in yesterday's contest.

Rowan again scored for Marion in the fifth inning. He took a free trip to first, advanced to second on a single by Buckland, stole third, and crossed the plate as Bacon cracked out a double. Kinler and Buckland died on base as Price, Conroy, and Reese went down in one-two-three order.

Errors on the part of Springfield were responsible for Marion's final tally in the sixth inning. With two out, Main walked. He landed on third as Rowan got his second hit of the game, and traveled home when Snyder, Springfield second sacker, fumbled Buckland's hot liner. Bacon was thrown out at first as the side retired. Millard Clothers scored their only run in the fifth frame when Snyder hit a two-bagger into left field and crossed the plate on a single by Tracy.

Hurl Nice Game

Both pitchers, Main for Marion and Lucas for Springfield, hurled a nice game but were supported none too well. Main allowed only six hits while Lucas was touched for seven singles, one of them being Rizer's home run. Lucas walked three men but Main failed to distribute any free tickets to first base. Each was credited with seven strikes.

Errors on the part of Springfield were directly responsible for two of the locals' runs. Marion made six errors but none proved fatal. On one occasion Main made a wild throw to first base in an effort to catch Gordon, who had hit a double play in the fifth frame to break up a scoring spree started by the visitors. Reese and Rizer pulled a double out in the seventh stanza when the former muffed a fly in deep right field and made a beautiful throw to second to catch a Springfield man off base.

Fans Pleased

Despite the fact that the boys made six errors, local fans were well satisfied with their playing in the first tilt of the season. They in the game and working hard every minute. Early and with the pep shown yesterday, the Athletics should sail through the season with very few defeats, if any. The outfield is almost perfect in holding. Rowan, Reese and Price made a total of five points yesterday, all difficult catches. Rowan drove for one in left field that would have been good for two or three bigger if not nabbed in time.

Rowan had a big day. Out of three times to bat he drove a walk, a double and a single. He had two putouts, and stole third and home in the first inning. Buckland got on base three times, out of four to bat, getting two singles and landing on second on an error.

B. C. Mackan, "Mack" was on the job as the sole official of the game and umpired to the satisfaction of all.

The Athletics will next take on Sandusky City here.

BUTLER'S STORE TEAM TO PLAY ERIE OUTFIT

Butler's Store recreational ball team will play the Erie in a practice game at Central Junior High, Tuesday night. The contest will be called at 7 o'clock. All who expect to play on the Butler outfit during the remainder of the season are requested to report Tuesday night so that the manager may take orders for suits.

INCREASE SEEN IN PERSONAL TAX DUPLICATE

Boost Evident as Time for Filing Blanks Nears Close. Auditor Says

Prospect of a substantial increase in Marion County's personal tax duplicate were evident today as the time limit for filing returns at the county auditor's office neared its close. All taxpayers coming in after today will lose their right to the $100 exemption allowed in personal tax valuations.

When preparations for the annual tax listing were started several weeks ago the auditors office mailed out 12,000 blanks to taxpayers. Based on last year's books it is estimated that about 95 per cent of these have been returned properly filled out. Many additional returns have been made by new residents of the city and county and others not listed on last year's books. This indicates that there will be an increase in the number of names listed on the duplicate this year.

Time Extended One Day Although May 1 was technically the final date for filing returns under the $100 exemption provision, the time was extended over today because of May 1 coming on Sunday.

County Auditor Thomas is of the opinion, however, that all but a small percentage of the returns were in when the doors of his office were closed at 10 o'clock Saturday night. The office was open continuously from 8 o'clock Saturday morning until 9 o'clock at night for the purpose of receiving returns from the hundreds of persons who called during the day.

The county's personal tax duplicate last year totaled $24,372,540. This includes property valuations listed by all individuals, business firms and corporations.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH GARMENT THEFT RELEASED

Margaret Russell alias Margaret Hill, arrested with three others early in March in connection with the theft of four $50 government bonds from S. J. Adams, Silverst, and who was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond, was released from the county jail Sunday when she furnished the bond. Fred Lamb and wife, Mrs. Mable Lamb, who also were bound over to the grand jury, still are being held. William Adams, son of S. J. Adams, who also was arrested in connection with the theft was later discharged. The four were charged with receiving stolen property.

The public is cordially invited to a free lecture on Christian Science by John Randall Dunn, C. S. B., of Boston, Mass. Monday evening, May 2nd, 8:15 p. m. Central Junior High School.

3,151 DELINQUENT TAX ACCOUNTS IN COUNTY

2,420 Persons on List Still Residents; Approximately $40,000 Outstanding

Collection of personal tax delinquencies now standing on the Marion County tax books will get under way within a few days when first notices will be mailed out by C. R. Handels of Columbus, who is to handle the collection under contract with the county commissioners.

Handels, assisted by a clerk, began work more than a week ago, making a card index of the delinquencies and is now preparing to mail out notices from this index. There are 3,151 residents and former residents of the county charged with delinquent personal taxes, 2,420 being listed at addresses in the city of Marion and 731 outside the city.

Some of these persons have died and others have left the community, and their present addresses are unknown. It will be impossible to collect in the majority of these cases, it is believed.

Mr. Handels is confident, however, that he will be able to get in a large part of the delinquencies, which total approximately $40,000. The items date from 1927 up to the last tax year.

Handels, a former settlement clerk in the state auditor's office, is the only person in Ohio engaged in this class of collection work. He made similar collections recently in Muskingum, Jackson and Licking Counties. He pays all expenses and is compensated on a commission basis.

SUIT FOR $268.92 IS FILED IN COURT HERE

Arthur C. Thompson Brings Action Against John B. Gunder

Suit for $268.92 was brought in the Court of Common Pleas this morning by Arthur C. Thompson against John B. Gunder, the action being the result of the alleged failure of the Robert C. Byers, Co., of Columbus, to pay a loan for which notes given by Thompson, Gunder and another person had been deposited as security.

The Byers company held two notes signed by him one for $250 and another for $125, $750 note signed by Gunder and two notes totalling $900 given by another person not named in the petition.

Notes Pledged As Security The Byers company, through Robert C. Byers, its president, later borrowed $1,000 at the Market Exchange Bank in Columbus and pledged the notes of Thompson, Gunder and the third party as collateral security. Thompson says the Byers company failed to meet its $1,000 obligation at maturity and the bank brought action to collect on the collateral. Thompson, Gunder and the third party entered into an agreement with the bank to share the cost and payment of any judgments rendered against them each paying one-third, Thompson says. He says that under this agreement $2,254.55 has been paid, of which Gunder has contributed only $243.65 while Thompson and the third party have each contributed $1,000.45. Thompson says that the bank has Gunder indebted to him to the extent of $268.92, for which he asks judgment. His attorney is Homer E. Johnson.

William McClelland died Jan. 21, 1927, the petition states, and R. C. McClelland was appointed administrator. The note was for $600 and for
